LYNCH LAW IN NEW YORK.—Crime, and the fear of dodging its punishment, is alarmingly on the increase in New York. Many of the citizens are holding meetings, and the only real universal remedy suggested seems to be a petition of the San Francisco Vigilance Committee. There is no secrecy attempted or assumed in the matter. According to the New York Sun, the now regularly organized Vigilance Committees have decided upon the following plan of action. To visit the Police Courts, Courts of Sessions, and other Courts to watch the proceedings. If any well known criminal is brought up on a charge of outrage on the lives or property of citizens, one of the members is to take particular note of the criminal's person and appearance, the name he goes by, and the result of the case, if he can ascertain it. If committed, the case is to be watched through its various gradations, until the offender gets the just reward of his offense; and, should the case hang fire in any way, to find out the cause of its so hanging fire, the persons to blame, and to have, if such be the case, the official brought up for malfeasance of office. If the prisoner for the person so detailed is to watch only one prisoner—should be committed without bail, and should be found at large, to cause his rearrest; and if this method should prove of little avail, to provide other measures to secure the punishment of the offender. They are also to watch the police; endeavor to detect and prevent the compounding of felonies, to watch the headquarters of thieves, and take such measures generally as may lead to the proper punishment to the offenders. The Sun adds; "If these measures fail, the Committee will resort to the short ligature and the lamp post."

BREACHES OF PROMISE.—If certain thousands of dollars are awarded to a few more women [illegible] suits [illegible] men old enough to be their grandfathers, it is possible that the system will operate as a premium, stimulating enterprising and charming females to seek every such lead in the country. White Pine pales before the [illegible] cls. Old men of capital may now deem themselves encompassed with dangers. They should make it a rule never to hold a personal interview with an unknown woman. Let it be done by proxy. There are damages in the rustle of every dress; there is financial depletion in the sight of every well-turned ancle; there is a fatal charm in the monetary glimmer of every snowy stocking, and a grand crash ending in pecuniary destruction, if ever the victim allows his senses to be entranced by the fascinations encompassing woman's waist.

Women of tact, energy and prepossessing address, have still a rich and unappropriated field before them in California. There are still sexagenarian money bags, not wholly insensible of female attractions; there are still plenty of lawyers ready and willing to befriend a woman. Indifference to developments, real or trumped up, which may come out on trial is the touchstone of success. Sail in girls! Go in and win. Come out with numerous thousands damages. Care not for the evidence brought out on trial. 'Twill all blow over and be forgotten in a twelve-month. The proprietors of the sensation as well as the legitimate Press, will thank you for the favors indirectly accorded, from the bottom of the place where their hearts ought to be. Figaro.

CUBAN FREEDMEN.—The greatest advance yet made by the patriots of Cuba towards gaining their independence is found in their decree abolishing slavery. This decree says: "Slavery, brought to Cuba by Spanish domination, ought to be extinguished with it. The central assembly therefore decree, first, slavery is abolished; second, an indemnification is to be granted to the slaveholders who sympathize with the Cuban cause; third, the freedmen are to bear arms—those who cannot fight work for the cause; fourth, the freedmen are to have the same rights and privileges as white men; fifth, all patriots, whatever their color, are under the same obligations to the cause." This is plain and strong language, and its effect will be to embitter the contest, but to make it more hopeless for Spain. The provisional government, had it been wise, would have abolished slavery in Cuba at first, before the patriots were prepared to do so. But that, in the end, would have amounted to the very thing as what has been done. —Springfield Republican.

WANTED.—The Editor of the Erie Gazette, no doubt tired of the old system of apprenticeship, thus advertises for a boy: "Wanted at this office a boy to take sheets from the press, Wednesdays, and Saturday afternoons. No limits as to salary, and the said boy is to consider that the office exists for his special convenience. If he don't feel well, or wants to go fishing, or play marbles, or see match games of base ball, or go shopping with his girl, or visit his cousin, the paper will wait his sovereign pleasure. Anybody who presumes to criticise his efforts is to be immediately arrested for contempt. All the boys he knows are to have a free run of the office. The editor's time to be exclusively at the foresaid boy's disposal. Salary to be drawn several years before. A boy possessing these qualifications, please report where he can be found."

OFFICE SEEKING.—It is related that at one of the inaugural crushes, Mr. Greeley exclaimed, "I am ashamed to be here, and should feel worse than I do were it not for the fact that so many fools are around me." Noticing a little boy in the crowd, and in danger of suffocation, he exclaimed: "Let us see to it that that boy is not crushed; but" turning to the boy, "don't you ever be seen in such a place again. I always hate to see a boy in Washington, for he will soon be trying to be appointed a page. Go into the country, boy, and help your father dig potatoes, and get away from Washington." The crowd who heard it enjoyed the scene vastly, you may be sure, and Mr. Greeley was very good-natured through it all, which isn't always the case with him.

The glory of manhood is never seen in this world. What a man is, you would not suspect from what you see of him here. Our summer is too short and too cold for that. Men do not blossom on the earth—at any rate, in their higher attributes. They live unknown and almost unseen, and die almost unwept and unlamented, to rise into a better sphere, where they begin, under more auspicious circumstances, to take on a dignity and proportion of which we have no conception here. You damage a man here because he is of little use to society, and he passes from your sight, and you think no more of him, but when you see him again, he shall be a prince before God. Beecher.

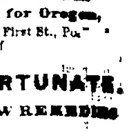
TO THE UNFORTUNATE.
NEW REMEDIES, NEW REMEDIES
Dr. Gibbon's Dispensary,


623 KEARNEY STREET, NEAR COMMERCIAL, San Francisco. Established in 1854, for the treatment of Sexual and Seminal Diseases, such as Gonorrhœa, Gleet, Stricture, Syphilis in all its forms, Seminal Weakness, Impotency, etc. Skin Diseases (of years standing) and Ulcerated Legs successfully treated.
Horrible Diseases.
How many thousands of persons, both male and female, are there who are suffering out a miserable existence from the effects of secret indulgences, or from virus absorbed into the system! Look at their pallid, bloated and disfigured faces and their broken-down constitutions, disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life. In this horrid situation thousands suffer until death closes the scene. Let parents, guardians, friends, attend to those who are suffering with any of these horrible life-destroying maladies at once, before they are cured for and cured before it be too late. Send them immediately to Doctor Gibbon, a physician who has made private disease his especial study for years, and who is certain to cure the most inveterate cases without mercury or any injurious drugs. It is important to those who are afflicted, or to those who are interested in the welfare of their friends, to be careful of the many pretended doctors who infest all cities, publishing their skill in curing all diseases in a few days, imposters. The public by using the names of eminent physicians from Europe and other places. Be therefore careful and make strict inquiry or you may fall into the hands of these charlatans.
Seminal Weakness.
Seminal Emissions, the consequence of self abuse, a solitary vice, or depraved sexual indulgence, is produced by the youth of both sexes to an almost unlimited extent, producing, with unerring certainty, the following train of morbid symptoms, unless combatted by scientific medical measures, viz: Sallow countenance, dark spots under the eyes, pain in the head, ringing in the ears, noise like the rustling of leaves and rattling of chariots, dizziness about the loins, weakness of the limbs, confused ideas, blunted intellect, loss of confidence, diffidence in approaching strangers, a dislike to form new acquaintances, a disposition to shun society, loss of memory, hectic flushes; pimples and various eruptions about the face, furred tongue, fetid breath, coughs, consumption, night sweats, monomania and frequent insanity. If relief is not obtained, should apply immediately, either in person or by letter, and have a cure effected by his new and scientific mode of treating this disease, which never failed effecting a quick and radical cure. Dr. G. will give One Hundred Dollars to any person who will prove conclusively to him that he was cured of his complaint by any other of the San Francisco quacks.
MARRIED MEN.
Or those who contemplate marriage, who are aware of, or under any of these fearful maladies, should not forget the sacred responsibility resting upon them, nor delay to obtain immediate relief.
DOCTOR GIBBON is responsible, and will give each patient a written instrument, binding himself to effect a radical and permanent cure, or make no charge.

FROM ASTORIA.—The following letter from a subscriber at Astoria, contains its own explanation:

ASTORIA, April 26, 1869.

Editor Oregonian—I noticed an item in the Herald of 23th inst. taken from the Commercial under the head of "No Re-arrange Buoys," and am sorry to state to their informant that there is not a word of truth in it. The Shamrock never sailed from here on the 20th for Gray's Harbor, but on the contrary, went up to Woody Island [illegible] to replace buoys and returned to Astoria again and to-day, 26th, went out on the bar for the purpose of attending to those buoys. There is no such officer in this department as Capt. Watson. Her first duty is a true Pilot of the Board, and not to arrange buoys on the Bound. She will pay your city a visit first to get additional buoys.

The young folks of Astoria intend to have a glorious time on the 1st of May.

The Ocean Spray, Capt. C. C. Dall, [illegible]ler. She became disabled just above Tongue Point and had to put down to Astoria. The [illegible] a log got fast in her propeller and they had [illegible] her, when they readily took it out.

Yours, SUB.

[illegible] Farmers of Oregon have many of them [illegible] back their wheat from the market, [illegible] Hope that a rise in the price would take [illegible] following from the last number of the [illegible] CO.—mercial Herald, which is reliable and upon such points, would seem to discourage the [illegible] probability that increase of price will be realized before next harvest. It says: The arrivals are equal to present requirements. Stocks here and in [illegible] are more than ample to meet all possible [illegible] until after another harvest, compelling us to carry over a large surplus. Advices from New York and Liverpool are discouraging to all engaged in the business. [illegible]ing shipments very materially and compelling many ships to go elsewhere seeking freights. There [illegible] a fair demand for all choice samples, but for all [illegible] of the staple sales are difficult to make. The [illegible] approximate the week's transactions: [illegible] extra choice, $1 65; 10,000 sks prime shipping, [illegible] 5,000 sks, $1 57½; 6,000 sks, Port Oregon, $1 55; [illegible] sks $1 50; 5,000 sks inferior milling, $1 40; 2,500 [illegible] $1 37½; 1,500 sks common, $1 35; closing quotations, $1 36@1 55, the latter an extra price.

[illegible]PER.—The Commercial says: A man was in [illegible] the country yesterday, peddling earthen ware [illegible] pots, which were manufactured on an improved [illegible] All around the outside of the vessel, near the [illegible] is a basin-like projection, forming a portion of [illegible] Around the sides, just above where the projection [illegible] the body of the vessel, is a number of holes. [illegible] The object of this arrangement is to catch [illegible] rain or other moisture, and the holes are designed [illegible] the water, progress to the rootlets of the [illegible] is a novel plan, and one not destitute of [illegible] as in this way a greater amount of moisture [illegible] and transmitted to the roots, than by [illegible] ever, save by irrigation. The gentleman [illegible] that these vessels were invented and [illegible] by Mr. Samuel Grove, at a point about [illegible] from Milwaukie, on the Foster road. The [illegible] the clay admits of a substantial mould and [illegible] of no other similar establishment in the [illegible] to what was on exhibition yesterday. [illegible] out every description of crockery ware. [illegible] This is another important branch of home [illegible] yet imperfectly developed.

[illegible]EATRE.—The benefit of Mrs Bates last night [illegible] appreciation in which she is held by the patrons of the drama in Portland. Oro Fino Hall was [illegible] full; not one vacant seat was to be found in gallery, pit or box. The "School for Scandal" rendered and received by the large audience present [illegible] of prolonged applause. At the close [illegible] piece Mrs. Bates was called in front of the [illegible] and in a few appropriate words tendered her [illegible] to the people of Portland for the liberal patronage [illegible]. Just as she was about to return to the left of the platform, Mr. Bates appeared upon the right. Bowing to Mrs. B., he said, as manager, he thanked her for untiring efforts to make the engagement of the [illegible] in Portland a success, and in appreciation of her [illegible] presented her a beautiful diamond set, which we [illegible] heard information was of the value of $700, and [illegible] showed their pleasure at this token of true [illegible] by good cheering.

[illegible]PLANK.—The shade trees lately set out on the [illegible] by order of the Common Council, have added [illegible] to the appearance of that portion of the city. Since [illegible] weather began these trees seem to be flourishing, [illegible] and in the course of a few years, care being [illegible] will afford a delightful shade in the summer [illegible]. Among them are some rare trees, which cost as [illegible] as the contractor received for furnishing and [illegible] them out. But the Council could not consistently [illegible] more than the price per tree agreed upon in the [illegible] contract, and the bill of the contractors being [illegible] hours, in the aggregate, it was reduced that [illegible] the last meeting. It is thought however that [illegible] will be introduced to make up the amount [illegible] due. Among the trees are Lynn, Alantus, Columbia Poplar, Buckeye, Locust, Fir, Spruce, [illegible] Maple.

[illegible]—It is quite charitable to suppose that all [illegible] in connection with the last trip of the [illegible] to this port and her departure was the result [illegible]. We are informed that after the wounded [illegible] Oliver by the waulking from her gun, she proceeded [illegible] down the river and ran foul of the dredger at the [illegible] of the Wallamet, causing considerable damage. [illegible] ran down to Tongue Point, where her propeller [illegible] tangled in a log, and she had to be hauled to [illegible] dock. It would seem that new hands must [illegible] at the helm.

[illegible]PRESS.—The New York Sun of February [illegible], says: In Englis & Son's yard, at Greenport, the [illegible] side wheel steamer for Capt. Wright, of California, was launched last week. Her dimensions are to be 190 [illegible] 30 feet breadth of beam, 12 feet depth of [illegible] at 1,600 tons measurement. The engines [illegible] built at the Morgan Iron Works. The boiler [illegible] 20 feet long and 8 feet in diameter; the cylinders [illegible] 11 feet stroke; and the wheels are to be iron. [illegible]ish and work are to be of the best quality. [illegible] is intended for the Puget Sound trade.

[illegible].—We are glad to announce that a benefit at the [illegible] Theater has been tendered to Mr. Pierpont [illegible], which will take place next Thursday evening. [illegible] member of the troupe now performing in [illegible] except perhaps Mrs. Bates, are the public [illegible] more indebted for the success and interest [illegible] the present engagement than to Mr. Thayer, [illegible] we hope to see the hall crowded. Shakespeare's [illegible] of Hamlet will compose the evening's entertainment, Mr. Thayer taking the character of Hamlet [illegible] the School of Scandal will be repeated. It is a [illegible] piece.

[illegible], chief engineer of the surveying party [illegible] now running a line of survey for a railroad [illegible] the junction of Central and Union Pacific Railroads [illegible] Snake river, arrived in town last night. Although we have not had the pleasure of meeting him, we [illegible] that the corps are near Umatilla, still coming this [illegible]. The boats having found a pass through the Blue [illegible] where they can be crossed without difficulty. [illegible] of survey crosses the summit about five miles [illegible].

[illegible].—The greater portion of the Salem excursionists returned to this city yesterday about the dinner hour, P. M. They came up to the wharf with flying banners, [illegible] drums, and blowing horns, and seemed to [illegible] of themselves wondrously. Everything connected with the celebration is said to have been successful. The Mechanic's Brass Band, of this city, was one of the main features of the occasion, and discoursed sweet music at various times going up the river, while at Salem and on the joyous crowd returned.

[illegible].—An interesting case of habeas corpus was heard in the District Court at Vancouver the other day. A young man under the age of 21, enlisted in the army [illegible] the consent of his parents. His father sued out a writ of habeas corpus for his release. After a full argument the writ was dismissed upon the ground that the courts could have no jurisdiction in the matter—that the only remedy was to take the case before the Secretary of War.

APPOINTMENTS.—Mr Ezra St. John, of this city, received his commission as superintendent of [illegible] yesterday evening, a commission as superintendent of [illegible] Custom of the United States buildings to be erected at this city. At the same time, Mr L H. Wakefield received a commission as disbursing agent of the funds appropriated for such buildings. Both are good selections.

SHERIFF'S SALE.—Especial attention is called to the large and important sale of real estate to-day by Mr Dekum, Auctioneer, A. B. Richardson, auctioneer, at 10 A. M., in front of the Court House. The property to be sold comprises some of the most desirable in Portland and should be advertisement and attend the sale.

REMAINING.—The last of the Oro Fino Saloon, one of the oldest brick buildings in the city is being torn up preparatory to laying a new floor. The timbers which were taken up yesterday were put down some fifteen years ago, and many of them were greatly decayed.

[illegible]—FOR ALBANY.—A fine fire engine was brought up by the bark Whistler for the Albany Fire Company. It is intended, says the Register, to welcome this instrument of protection with considerable demonstration. Albany has long felt the need of a "masheen."

WON'T ACCEPT.—We learn that the Base Ball Club at Oregon City, have determined not to accept any challenges to play match games during the present season.

The undersigned, who has always enjoyed public confidence for the excellent quality of his Coffee, neglects nothing to justify the good name acquired by his productions, the sale of which daily increases. The acknowledged superiority of his merchandise, which commands here, and in the markets of the interior, a relatively higher price, excites the cupidity of some manufacturers, and every day he sees increasing the number of those who, by counterfeit or imitation of his mark, seek to deceive the public, palming upon them their inferior productions for the genuine G. VENARD CHARTRES COFFEE. This fraud can deceive nobody after a trial, but only adds to the favorable opinion of the consumers, the very flattering though unwilling testimony of the counterfeiters. Nevertheless, buyers should be forewarned, and placed on their guard against this practice.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, APRIL 28, 1869

How Things Look

In reading over the Eastern papers one can not but be gratified with the cheering aspect of the political horizon. Although the country has yet scarcely recovered from the blighting influence of Johnson's administration, the mild but firm course of Grant is having a regenerating effect upon the prospects of the South for the dawn of a brighter day. The organizations which in various parts of the South had determined to resist all law, and whose presence was a terror to all peaceable citizens, are fast disbanding, and the outrages of our humanity, which were lately reported in the murdering of good people merely because of political opinion, are now seldom heard of. The whole South, under the influence of the firm yet conciliatory policy of the new administration is fast being really reconstructed upon that solid political basis of equal rights to every citizen and exact justice to all men. The arm of industry and commerce, for a time paralyzed by the shock of civil war, is gradually regaining its wonted strength, and the smile of peace is calling up from the fair face of Mother Earth the rich production of her bosom. Political leaders who illaqueated and led the masses, many of them blindly, into the vortex of civil war, are being [illegible] and on every hand the people are w[illegible] the right to think for themselves. A[illegible] by the nearest to a non-partisan President which the country has had since the days of Washington, the popular will is speaking in thunder tones to those whose policy stands in the way of the progress of the country, and commanding them to stand aloof. Then there are yet many prejudices to be overcome. The burden of taxation, brought about solely by the recreant course of the Democratic party, bears heavily upon the people, and the blind devotees of human slavery, once dwelling all through the land, but now growing "beautifully less," are harping upon the injustice of a war which was brought upon themselves by themselves, yet it cannot be denied that the popular feeling, the will of the m[illegible]es, is with the President in his attempt to place the country truly in the path to that high state of prosperity which can only be attained by a wise administration of law.

Never, since the day that witnessed the "de[illegible] damnation of the taking off" of Abraham Lincoln, have our internal affairs been more hopeful than at present, and no foreign power dare to resist our just demands. In the pow[illegible] of all the elements of greatness as a people and the energy and enterprise to develop our vast resources, a just and wise government is the great essential to the attainment by the United States of the proudest position among the nations of the earth. Such a government, we believe, we will have under the present Administration. The people at large are now more fully awakening to their true interests, and arising to the [illegible] of the privileges of American citizens. We have great faith in the ultimate triumph of right principles and the future of the Republic. We believe that the car of reform shall yet roll forward from the impelling force of American thought and American institutions, and that the day will come when whole country, North, South, East and West, in the spirit of harmonious enterprise, shall move on together in the grand march of national improvement, when men of all climes shall find the utmost liberty of conscience, combined with the safest protection from wrong, when, from our example, brooding tyranny shall be hurled from the thrones of all civilized powers, and liberty regulated by law, shall bless the world. When the > "Mighty east shall bless the west,"

> And sea shall answer sea,
> And mountain unto mountain call:
> For God, for we are free!"

Small Notes.

Commissioner Rollins, of the Internal Revenue Department, has made the following decision in regard to agreements to convey real estate, viz: "A written agreement to sell and convey real estate upon the fulfillment of specified conditions, such as the payment of a certain sum of money, should be stamped at the rate of five cents for each sheet or piece of paper upon which it is written; but if the instrument contains the promise of any one of the parties to pay a certain amount of money on demand, or at a time designated, it shall also be stamped at the same rate as a promissory note.

The Democratic papers seem to be very much shocked and disgusted because the President has appointed colored men to office, as in the case of the Ministers to Liberia and Hayti, but the appointment of these men to represent the Government in those countries is hailed by most of our citizens as both politic and appropriate. If intelligent and able colored men have been chosen, they will be far more useful representatives than politicians of our own race, and incapable of commanding sympathy from the people to whom they are accredited. Grant's act illustrates his strong common sense. It will win favor from the radicals of his party without offending the moderates.

General Rawlings, the new Secretary of War, is a young man of not more than thirty-six years, and possesses a marked and even striking physique. He is above middle stature, of a slender but muscular and well-knit frame. His head is carried slightly forward, and there is a perceptible stoop as he walks, which probably grows more from the weakness of his chest than from habit. His head is long, especially so between and forward of the ears. The features are sharp, face oval, look aggressive and alert, eye keen, almost piercing, beard and hair full and very black. He speaks deliberately, like a conscientious man, whose mind has been laden with weighty interests, and those not his own. He has a quick and suggestive intellect, and very clear perceptions.

The great excitement about White Pine seems to be cooling off about as rapidly as it arose. The S. F. Chronicle says: The White Pine furor has reached its culminating point, and strong symptoms of a reaction begin to manifest themselves in divers quarters. A vast number of mines have been "located;" hundreds and hundreds of companies have been incorporated; there is any quantity of "feet" for sale—just "to raise working capital," you know—but out of all of these wonderfully rich mines, with their armies of trustees and their untold billions of "capital," there are not half a dozen that have furnished any tangible proof that they will ever pay a dollar. Under the circumstances, it seems to us that the doubters and croakers have reason on their side, and the White Pine enthusiasts will do wisely and well to "go slow."

The Yuba river rises and falls every day now as regularly as a thermometer.

Odd Fellows' Semi-Centennial Celebration

The fiftieth anniversary of the introduction of Odd Fellowship into the United States was celebrated by the members of the Order in Oregon, Idaho and Washington, at Salem on Monday, the 26th, by a larger gathering and a more imposing demonstration than ever before witnessed in Oregon. And it is doubtful if even in California, prior to that day, there ever occurred so large a convocation of Odd Fellows. The procession which was formed at half past ten o'clock A. M., contained, according to the lowest estimate, not less than four hundred Odd Fellows, in regalia, while the average estimates put the number at a considerably higher figure. Beside those in the procession, there were present in the city at least a hundred in some way in the celebration, a number great enough to swell the total to over six hundred. This number, of course, included only the registered, active members of the order. In Oregon, there are twenty four working lodges, in Washington, three, in Idaho, four, and in the jurisdiction, three encampments. Of these, eight of the Oregon lodges were represented as lodges, while almost every lodge contributed one or more members who joined with the others so that, with few exceptions, the lodges were in some way represented. The Grand Lodge of Oregon and Willamette Encampment were also represented in their organized capacity. The Oregon lodges occupying distinct places in the procession, were Buena Vista, No. 24; Silver, 21; Olive, 18; Hassalo, 15; Anniversary, 13, Albany, 4; Samaritan, 2, and Chemeketa, 1. Marching two and two, the procession extended several blocks in length. The turnout of Willamette Encampment was the most imposing feature of the procession. In addition to the members of the encampment, in their rich regalia, there was an immense car, in the door of which sat Past C. P., F. G. Schwatka, guarded on either hand by the usual officers. Brother Schwatka is believed to be the oldest Odd Fellow on this coast, in lodge standing. The Willamette Farmer, issued on the morning of the celebration has an item concerning him, from which we quote: "He was initiated into Cincinnati Lodge, No. 3, Cincinnati, Ohio, in January, 1836, and is now in his thirty-fourth year of membership in the Order. He was the first H. P. and second C. P. of Lead mine Encampment, No. 5, Galena, Ill., instituted in 1846, and is now the oldest living P. C. P. of that Encampment. He saw the first procession of Odd Fellows in Baltimore, in 1819, numbering about thirty-five persons, and was then a lad of less than ten summers. He says his recollection extends back to the time when, in the Lodge where he was initiated, the members thought the Lodge room was well furnished when supplied with a dry-goods box for a pedestal, saw dust for a carpet, and a few tallow candles around the room. He has been faithful to his trust and has seen the Order grow from thirty five faithful followers to over a quarter of a million zealous Odd Fellows."

The procession moved to Marion Square—the picnic grounds—at about eleven o'clock, directed by Past Grand Sam. E. May, Chief Marshal, assisted by a number of deputies. During the entire march, the streets were lined by crowds of interested spectators, and when the column reached the square, the seats prepared were found already fully occupied, while hundreds of people were compelled to stand or find seats upon the greensward. There were not less than two thousand people upon the ground when the exercises began. When the column had marched in and its various sections had taken their assigned places, the following exercises were had: Overture, by the Mechanics' Brass Band of Portland. Opening Ode, by the members of the Order; Prayer, by the Chaplain, Rev. P. S. Knight; Singing, by the Glee Club; Reading of the Dispensation, by Past Grand, J. N. Dolph; Music, by the Band; ORATION, BY P. G. REP. HON. NATHAN PORTER, of California; Singing, by the Glee Club; Benediction. The assemblage then moved to the tables, set out at a little distance, and partook of a splendid cold collation, contributed by the members and Rebeccas of Salem. Everything here went off in the most orderly manner; everybody obtained an excellent lunch and yet there was an abundance left.

Of the oration, it may be said that while it was totally free of the usual spread-eagle and bifalutin characteristics, it was instructive, interesting, and sometimes amusing. The Orator gave a brief history of Odd Fellowship; its origin and rise in the Old World, and its introduction into the new; its progress and its triumphs, and closed with a synopsis of its more important statistics, and a view of its moral and social mission in the world. Much to the regret of every one, the speaker was compelled by hoarseness and indisposition to retire from the stand before completing his address. He had a long trip up by sea and had driven a good part of the preceding night without rest or sleep, in order to reach Salem in time for the celebration and had contracted a severe cold. However, incomplete as was the Oration, every one was highly pleased with it. Mr. Porter is of fine, manly presence, a ready though not rapid speaker. He went straight into his subject, selected always the right word in the right place, made no attempt at oratorical effect, though his passages were often beautiful and always smooth and pleasing. His address was agreeably spiced with genuine humor though its strongest characteristic was good practical common sense. Before he had half concluded, the heart of Oregon Odd Fellowship had opened and taken him in. The members of the order will regret to learn that in view of the approaching session of the Grand Lodge of California of which he is a member, he will return immediately home, without again visiting this part of the State.

Upon the conclusion of the exercises at Marion Square, the procession was reformed and marched back to the hall, where all the lodges and the encampment were dismissed. The hall, however, was kept open from this hour—3 P. M.—till a late hour at night, during which time there were crowds of people passing in and out, and interchanging courtesies and social amenities. During the evening, the spacious hall, the old State Library room, the Odd Fellow's Library room, the Hall of the House of Representatives, the Senate Chamber, the Secretary of State's office, and the P. T. Co.'s office were literally crammed with visitors—ladies and gentlemen, nearly all of whom were connected with or related to the order.

The younger and gayer portion of the people, however, went to the Wigwam, where the anniversary ball, under the management of committees of Odd Fellows, was in progress. This, too, was an eminent success. The spacious hall was beautifully and expensively decorated with evergreens, flags, paintings, fancy garlands and festoons, elegant designs of tissue paper, cages of singing birds, etc., etc. During the first half of the night the hall was crowded to excess, but after supper the dancers began to drop off by pairs and half dozens. It was, however, two o'clock before there was room for even the ladies to be all seated at once. An elegant supper was furnished at Stewart's hall at 12 o'clock. The music for the occasion was furnished by the Mechanics' Band, of Portland.

We speak but the common verdict when we say that the celebration, with all its concomitants, was an eminently successful and creditable affair, and that the day will be long and pleasantly remembered by all who participated in the ceremonies or the festivities of the occasion. The Odd Fellows of Salem, to whom had been entrusted, mostly, the task of preparing for the celebration, are entitled to special mention and commendation for their untiring exertions to render the occasion pleasant to visiting brethren. No expense nor pains was spared in this direction, and they have the satisfaction of knowing that their efforts have met with universal praise. Among all the guests we heard but one style of expression—that of gratification.

To the P. T. Co., also, the visiting brethren and guests are much indebted for the share they contributed to the pleasures of the celebration. The company placed their best boats at the disposal of the lodges, both above and below, at greatly reduced rates, and used every possible exertion to render the trip pleasant to their passengers.

ROUTE CHANGED. The Secretary of War has changed the route of travel for military officers between the Eastern and Western sides of the country to the Pacific Railroad. Heretofore it has been by way of the Isthmus. The difference in distance is over 2,000 miles, in time, it will be, when the railroad is completed, about two weeks. These statements are based upon a trip from New York to San Francisco. A trip further up the coast, to Oregon or Washington Territory, would make the difference in distance and time much greater. Under the new rule officers destined for Nevada will have to travel 5,000 miles via Panama to this city, and hence 500 miles by land back into the interior. The direct line by railroad will save much to the War Department in the way of mileage, and the example set by the Secretary of War should be promptly followed by Congress. There will be no reason in continuing to pay the Representatives from the coast milage for the round-about Isthmus route after they can go by railroad in hardly more than half the distance.

LAST NIGHT'S DISPATCHES

PHILADELPHIA, April 27.—A large number of strangers have arrived to participate in the Odd Fellows celebration on Monday. The weather promises to be fine. After a parade the grand feature will be the ball in the skating rink, with a capacity for 300 sets to dance at once. Nearly $5,000 have been expended in decorating the interior.

An immense Cuban demonstration will be held here during the week in the Academy of Music. Several Senators are invited to speak.

DEATH OF GOV. DUNN, ex President Reynolds, Lucero, Bassett, Minister to Hayti, and other prominent colored men were entertained recently at the Union League club house.

LOCK HAVEN, April 27.—Serious damage has occurred to the State dam across the Hudson. Two hundred feet of the top of the dam was carried away. The water rose twenty feet above low water mark, the highest for many years. Fears of a disaster are seriously entertained on the Chamberlain canal.

NEW YORK, April 27.—The Herald's special from London says the Post has an article on the Cuban question. It gives currency to the assertion that Grant desires the acquisition of Cuba in order to divert the attention of the Americans from their internal distractions. It says there would be no doubt as to the issue of the conflict, and thinks the acquisition of Cuba would lead to the final acquisition of the whole West Indies. France and England will doubtless determine whether these designs against Cuba are to be tolerated, or whether they shall aid Spain in maintaining her colony. The French press has agitated the question much in the same tenor. A special meeting of the French Cabinet was held on Tuesday and Wednesday, which resulted in the sending of a special envoy, yesterday, to London, with dispatches referring to the present complication.

BY ATLANTIC CABLE.

LONDON, April 24.—Dispatches from Dublin state that Hugh Bradshaw, a well known Irish magistrate had been shot at Tiperary.

VIENNA, April 25.—In the Richarath the question of the final passage of the primary school law, led to an excited debate, the Polish and Tyrolese Ministers opposing it strenuously. Upon closing the debate the Polish and Tyrolese delegates submitted a protest against its enactment, and quitted the Chamber after the vote had been taken and the law passed.

FLORENCE, April 24.—The Court of Appeal, which has had under consideration the general code for some time, concluded the examination and unanimously agreed on the abolition of the death penalty.

COPENHAGEN, April 24.—The Dagblatts newspaper has an article on the purchase of Danish West India Island by the United States, as arranged by Secretary Seward. It says the question of the acquisition of the Antilles by the United States, ripens, and it accuses America, by the recent action of Congress of a want of respect to government of Denmark. It also states that if the measure is finally carried, Count Raasloff will resign.

OUR SAN FRANCISCO DISPATCH.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 27.—The steamer Capital while entering her berth last night, ran against the wharf and stove in her starboard side, on the main deck, from the forward gangway to the paddle box. She was not much damaged though, and went up the river to-night.

A fire occurred last night in the Melodeon on Pacific street. A panic among the audience ensued. The flames were soon extinguished.

A frame dwelling house on Monroe street was entirely destroyed by fire last night. No insurance.

At two o'clock this afternoon another fire broke out in a frame building on Greenwich street, owned by Albert Koster and occupied by Henry Hobart as a grocery. The building and stock were badly damaged. Insured for $1,500.

Delinda Cook died on the 25th and was to be buried to-day, but the Coroner considering the death mysterious, ordered the funeral postponed. The result of an inquest was a verdict of death from a dose of arsenic administered by her own hand to beautify her complexion. The jury censures the druggist for selling the arsenic without a physician's certificate.

J. Wilson, driver of Engine No. 3, while going to the Monroe street fire last night, was thrown from his seat and cut about the head and face by the cobble stones.

James Lynch, butcher, was found dead in his slaughter-house on Brannan street yesterday afternoon.

No new case of small pox reported within the last few days, and no deaths.

Business generally improving, and a better feeling prevails than for some months past.

It is expected work will be resumed in the Yellow Jacket, Crown Point and Kentuck mines by the 1st of May.

FROM THE NORTH.

VICTORIA, April 25.—A vein of splendid coal, five feet seven inches in thickness, has been discovered at Saanich, near the water's edge.

The safe of the Colonial Hotel was opened early yesterday morning by means of false keys, and robbed of $850. The thief has made his escape.

The steamer Geo. S. Wright arrived from Portland yesterday afternoon.

The Government has decided to send a gunboat to Barclay Sound to punish the Indians.

The steamer Otter will sail for Sitka to-morrow.

FROM CANYON CITY.—Through the kind needs of Mr. Fechheimer we are in receipt of the Canyon City Journal of the 17th instant from which we gather the following. The next term of the Circuit Court for Grant county will be held on the second Monday in June.

The condition of the public roads in the vicinity of Canyon City is a subject of comment. Many places are dangerous and some now entirely impassable.

The claims of Messrs. Henry Watkins & Co., J. Wolfinger & Co., and others, situated on the John Day River, continue to yield large dividends. The mines on John Day River bid fair to pay for many miles below the mouth of Canyon creek.

The I X L company, at Prairie Diggings, will have their mill in operation next month. The John Day Quartz Mining Company's mill at Ex is doing nothing, comparatively.

The claims of Messrs. John Campbell & Co., situated on Canyon Creek, one mile above the city, are working eight hands, ground sluicing through a bed rock flume three feet wide by 1,000 feet length.

On the evening of the 8th inst., an entertainment came off at the Court House, consisting of charades, tableaux, songs, etc., which was well patronized and a complete success in the execution of all the parts. The Sabbath School, under the superintendency of L. B. Trobridge, Esq., is attended by pretty much all the children within reach of it.

The common schools of Grant county for the year ending on the first of March, was attended with more success than any previous year. Although the public school fund amounted to $1,149, to be divided amongst four districts, still the Trustees managed to have five and two thirds quarters taught within the county, instructing 141 children, employing four teachers.

The intelligence of the discovery of rich gold-bearing quartz in the new Territory of Alaska, comes to us in a sufficiently authenticated form. The valuable discovery was made at Cook's Inlet, about 50 miles north of Kodiak. Thirty pounds of the quartz was brought away, some of which is in the possession of Capt. Robinson of the bark Washington, now in this port. The specimens shown us are exceedingly rich, and there is no reason to doubt the great importance of the discovery.

Washington Territory News.

Thos Parsons was found dead at his house at Nisqually on Saturday last with a bullet hole through his head.

A young man by the name of John McAllister, was seriously, if not fatally, wounded by the accidental discharge of his gun, while out hunting in the Nisqually bottom.

The Republican says Garfielde's nomination is well received, and everything favors his election. That paper gives him a hearty endorsement, and will most earnestly and cheerfully support him.

The Transcript says, to wit: While we cannot support Mr. Garfielde, neither will we in any shape or manner support, sustain, or give aid or comfort to our old arch-enemy, the Democratic party.

We learn that the owners of the steamers Jennie S. Wright and Gussie Telfair have entered into an agreement that they will no longer run as opposition, and have put the prices of freight and passage up to old figures.

I. A. Wilson, Councilman from the District of Pierce, Mason and Chehalis, has resigned his seat and his resignation is in the hands of the Governor. A call has been issued for a convention to nominate his successor.

The work of the coast survey, intended to be prosecuted this summer on the Sound and Straits, will not be done, on account of the failure of the necessary funds to pay expenses having been received. The Fauntleroy will return to Seattle, to undergo repairs.

Several Indians, residents of Lewis and Cowlitz counties, were in town one day last week transacting business in the land office. They purchased several tracts of land, paying their green backs and receiving their certificates the same as any other "native born" Americans.

The steamer Libby has been in port during the week, undergoing repairs. In the attempt to place her on the ways, she unfortunately got a couple of piles forced through her bottom. The damage was slight and has since been repaired. Capt. Libby also got a sprained ankle, with his other bad luck, but is doing well.

A steamer belonging to Messrs Meigs & Gawley, and formerly owned by a Russian company of Alaska, is doing good service in towing and freighting. She was a rude old piece of architecture, and yet carries many of the marks, which her owners intend to obliterate as soon as opportunity offers. To pronounce her name, say poly, take a sneeze, and add on the word sky. To learn to write her name, apply to the captain on board.

The Republicans of Thurston county have nominated the following county ticket: For Representatives, L. A. Treen, Washington Peck; for Joint Representative with Chehalis, Justin Scammon; for County Commissioners, G. A. Barnes, James Wood, Henry Parsons; for Sheriff, William Billings; for Auditor, A. A. Phillips; for Treasurer, J. H. Monson; for Probate Judge, D. R. Bigelow; for County Surveyor, F. W. Brown, for Wreck Master, J. H. Cleale.

MR. M. REESE, the millionaire of San Francisco, visited and patronized THE CARBON DISPENSARY on his first arrival in this city, because he heard that it was the [illegible] and most elegant Drug Store on the coast. We also are furnishing the toilet articles and medicines to the guests of Mr. Holladay for the excursion trip to Victoria and Puget Sound, which is a further evidence of our increased popularity. Everybody now procures all articles in our line at THE DISPENSARY because our medicines and goods are fresh, pure and cheap.

It is nothing more than the truth, if people tell you that though KOHN & FISHEL are not selling off at cost, they nevertheless do sell at lower rates than any other house in Oregon. Their stock of Clothing cannot be surpassed. It is undoubtedly the finest, neatest and most fashionable in the State. Every person would do well to call on Kohn & Fishel, No. 91 Front street, before purchasing elsewhere.

HOAGLAND'S NEW PATENT SHAFT COUPLING!
W. E. COOPER
HAS PURCHASED THE RIGHT FOR THIS County of the above Patent, and will hereafter use it in the construction of all the Vehicles manufactured at his extensive
Carriage Factory,
Corner of Second and Morrison Streets.
He respectfully refers to the following
CARD.
Having examined the New Patent Shaft Coupling, invented by H. B. Hoagland, we feel pleasure in informing the public that in our opinion it is the safest and best method of connecting shafts or tongues to all vehicles that has ever been used.
It fastens without bolt or screw, and is therefore, easily and speedily separated. It rests on Gutta Percha so as to be entirely free from the rattling sound which so often disturbs the restless horses. It is easily changed so that the shafts or tongue may be detached in an instant, and is convenient, safe and secure.
It is easy to change to this style of coupling any buggy or other vehicle now in use, and with small expense. We have come to the conclusion to use this new invention ourselves and recommend its use in all cases. We consider it far superior to the Brewster Patent, heretofore considered the best in use.

DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN

DATES TO APRIL 24.

Washington News.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—A report prevailed today that Senators Abbott and Sprague had left the city for a meeting, but it proved untrue.

Enoch Hoag was last night confirmed as Superintendent of Indian affairs for the Central Agency. The vote on confirming Carlisle as Minister to Stockholm was reconsidered after a long debate, but no final action was taken.

A telegram received states that Secretary Fish has informed the Spanish Minister that the United States will hold the British Government responsible for the seizure of the Mary Lord.

At a special meeting of the Quebec City Council the other day, a disturbance took place which at one time threatened to be serious. Revolvers were drawn and some blows exchanged. The Mayor attempted to restore order, but his authority was defied. The police were finally called and dispersed the meeting.

WASHINGTON, April 24.—Treasurer Spinner has issued a circular, notifying the national banks that they will not hereafter be permitted to exchange securities deposited as a guarantee for their circulation.

The Treasurer has also issued a circular stating the terms on which new greenbacks will be issued, first in return for mutilated notes and fractional currency; second, on the receipt of certificates of deposit with the assistant treasurers and United States depositors; third, on receipt of the collection of checks on banks in Washington, Boston, New York and Philadelphia. The new notes will be forwarded at the expense of the Department, when the amount is equal to $50,000.

The following nominations were tabled: Cheeseman, as Treasurer of the Branch Mint at San Francisco; Roberts, as Register of Land Office at Marysville; also the following, which had been erroneously published as rejected: Sanford, as Minister to Spain; Jones, as Minister to Belgium, and Pile, Minister to Brazil. The effort of tabling differs from rejection, in allowing the nomination to be sent at the next session.

New York News.

NEW YORK, April 23.—The billiard match between Foster and Dacey Dion, French carom game, 300 points, was won by Foster, by 117 points.

The crew of the ship Richard Robinson have caused the arrest of Richard Hoffman, first mate, for shocking cruelty on their trip from Liverpool. Two of the crew were so badly beaten that they jumped overboard, and one was lost.

NEW YORK, April 24.—Geo. Dalton, a well known stock broker, shot himself in his carriage on Broadway to-day; cause, unfortunate speculations in stock.

The Tribune says: At the city headquarters of the Cuban patriots a million dollars have been expended in purchasing arms, equipments and stores. Twenty thousand stands of arms are ready to be forwarded to their destination on the Cuban coast. Councils of war are nightly held in this city, and many prominent ex-army and naval officers and volunteers link their fortunes with the Cubans. On Thursday night a company of sixty men and officers were put on board a gunboat and carried to Sandy Point, and thence embarked in a vessel for Cuba. Two weeks ago a large steamer was dispatched from this port, in ballast, touched near Cape May, and took on board arms, equipments and stores, besides men from Philadelphia. Munitions and men are also collecting at Boston and several Southern cities. Several well known ex-army officers and Cubans left last evening for Boston, whence the next party will sail.

Miscellaneous.

ALBANY, April 23.—The Senate bill killed the Broadway Surface Railroad.

ST. LOUIS, April 23.—Louis Dallman, the counterfeiter, was shot and killed by a policeman to-day.

The Mayor has issued a proclamation requesting a general suspension of business on Monday, on the occasion of the celebration of the 50th anniversary of Odd Fellowship in America. Extensive arrangements have been made for the celebration.

CHICAGO, April 23.—Details of disasters from the flood continue to be received from various places, but all present mere variations of the same sorrowful story of damage to property with occasional loss of life. The worst seems to have passed.

NEW ORLEANS, April 23.—A number of Cubans and Cuban sympathizers had a meeting to night, and afterwards paraded the streets in a torchlight procession. Among the signers of the call for the meeting was Dumas, the newly appointed Minister to Liberia.

PROVIDENCE, April 23.—Five thousand citizens have signed an address to Governor Burnside, expressing their indignation at Sprague's assault on himself and the Rhode Island soldiers, and tendering him a public reception. Burnside declines the reception for the present, alluding to Sprague's aspersions at some length.

NEW YORK, April 23.—It is stated that both Abbott and Sprague yesterday expressed their willingness to fight if necessary. Sprague waited at home for a hostile message, and it appears Abbott expected something of the sort. It was decided however that the messages shall be delivered to-day.

TORONTO, April 24.—The narrow gauge railroad scheme on Lake Ontario is meeting with great success. The prospects are that the roads will be pushed forward.

At a meeting of the subscribers of the proposed dominion telegraph, they censured the course of those who permitted names to be used by the directors. A resolution was passed to legally resist the payment of further calls for money.

MONTREAL, April 23.—The printers are on a strike and the newspapers are now left without hands.

Guilt's motion for a claim against the United States for indemnity for damages done by the Fenian invasion, is creating no little stir. It gives a chance for sprouting and will probably result in a rupture between Great Britain and the United States.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., April 24.—The body of Miss Sophia Howe, who mysteriously disappeared in January, has been found in a pond. It bore no marks of violence and it is believed she committed suicide.

BOSTON, April 25.—A meeting of the employees at the Charlestown Navy Yard was held last evening to sustain the eight-hour law without any reduction of wages; also to organize an eight-hour Union League to act in concert with the workingmen of other navy yards. A communication was received from the Secretary of the Convention of the employees of the Philadelphia Navy Yard to the effect that the men are striking to the eight hour law and protesting against a reduction of wages.

NEW ORLEANS, April 24.—The announcement of Wicoff's acquittal was premature. The verdict was not agreed upon until 6 P. M., when a verdict of not guilty was returned. His trial on the next indictment is fixed for Monday.

The May coupons on the State debt were paid at the Citizens, New Orleans and Bank of America on presentation.

Mexico.

HAVANA, April 22.—A telegram from Guadalajara, Mexico, reports that some rebels captured Rosario on the 2d inst., but fled on the approach of the Government troops.

Colonels Ortega and Castrueda have pronounced against Juarez and joined General Palacio.

HAVANA, April 24.—Advices from the city of Mexico are to the 16th. Congress has suspended the individual guaranty act, as applied to robbers and revolutionists. Revolution was imminent in Jalisco. Congress had returned the financial report of the committee without entertaining it. They also refused to entertain the July statement.

NEW YORK, April 24.—The Herald's Havana special says a messenger arrived from Mexico with despatches for Washington. Martinez was expected on the coast of Sinaloa from California. Several Generals in Mexico are holding a conference. The Governor of Yucatan has charged Cubula and former Governor before Congress with having murdered his brother.

From Cuba.

HAVANA, April 23.—Port au Prince advices to the 3d, state that the commander of a British steamer has demanded satisfaction for seizing the mails. He found a Haytian war steamer going on an important mission, and admonished the Captain and Salnave. The latter apologized, when

The Charles Reade Libel Suit.

This celebrated case, wherein the author of Griffith Gaunt sued Sweetser & Gardner, former proprietors of the Round Table, for libel, has just been tried in the Supreme Court of New York on the circuit, before Mr. Justice Clerke and a jury. The complaint alleged that in the summer of 1866, the defendants published three separate critical notices of Griffith Gaunt, in which they accused the plaintiff of writing an indecent and obscene book. The defendants admitted the publication of the articles and justified them as true and legitimate criticism.

The case was opened on Feb. 26, and closed on March 4. The able and interesting charge to the jury, by His Honor, Mr. Justice Clerke, we copy from the Round Table of March 13, as follows:

GENTLEMEN OF THE JURY.—Among the rights of perfect obligation, which alone the law undertakes to protect, that of reputation is one of the most prominent. Many men, unfortunately for the well-being of society, are totally regardless of principle, and are therefore totally regardless of reputation. But to every member of the society who, differing from the beasts that perish, is guided by principle, reputation is necessarily very precious. He is very sensitive in relation to it, and it would be most unwise as well as most unjust not to offer him ample and efficient means of vindicating it when it is unjustly assailed. Accordingly, the law allows an action for the recovery of damages as means of redress for injuries in cases of defamation. It allows for oral slander an action technically called an action of slander; for written defamation, or defamation by printing or pictures, it allows an action technically called libel. Our law, like the Roman law, recognizes a very marked distinction between spoken defamation and defamation communicated by writing, printing, pictures or signs. Matter calculated to cast ridicule upon a man, or to degrade him in the opinion of his acquaintances or of the community, is libellous, if written, or printed and published, although, if only spoken, it may be actionable. For instance, to accuse a man orally of being a liar, even in the presence of hundreds, is not actionable per se; but to say of him in an action published in a newspaper, that he is a liar, no proof of special damage is necessary. A general oral charge, even of having sworn falsely, without reference to material evidence given by the plaintiff at the trial of a cause, is not actionable in itself, but it is actionable to print and publish concerning a man, "Our army swore terrible in Flanders, as said Uncle Toby: and if Toby were alive now, he might say the same thing of some modern swearers—the man is no doubt swearing to an old story." A libel, then, as applicable to individuals, may be defined to a malicious publication, expressed either in printing or writing, or by effigy, tending either to injure the memory of one dead or the reputation of one alive, and expose him to public hatred, contempt, or ridicule.

The plaintiff in his allegations in the complaint, first states that he is the author of a certain work called Griffith Gaunt, and that certain articles published by the defendants are libellous. As these have been spread before you, I will not now read them. Two of these were to the effect that this work was calculated to demoralize society, to debauch public morals, and to contaminate the purity of the youthful mind. The third article accuses—but whether it amounts to an accusation you are to determine—that he allowed an obscure person to assume his name, and to pass off the book here as his original production. The two first are essentially different from the third. The former accuse him of writing and disseminating works calculated to debauch and demoralize the public mind, and the latter accuses him of what, the plaintiff's counsel contends, is absolutely an accusation of fraud. Now, in regard to the allegation in the complaint that Mr. Charles Reade is the author of Griffith Gaunt, you have had the evidence of two witnesses who lived in the house for five or six months. They saw the manuscript, saw him actually engaged in the composition of the work, and saw him hand over his original manuscript to his amanuensis, and saw him receive it back again from his amanuensis, then send it to the printers, then receive the proof, correct it, and send it back to them. It is scarcely necessary for me to say that, in my opinion—though you are to judge—the proof is ample as to the authorship.

With regard to the two first alleged libels, have the defendants transcended the limits of all fair criticism in these two articles?

In criticising the productions of an author, the law allows a considerable latitude. The interests of literature and science require that the productions of authors shall be subject to fair criticism; that even some animadversion may be permitted, unless it appears that the critic under the pretext of reviewing his book, takes an opportunity of attacking the character of the author, and of holding him up as an object of ridicule, hatred, or contempt. In other words, the critic may say what he pleases of the literary merits or demerits of the published production of an author, but with respect to his personal rights, relating to his reputation, the critic has no more privilege than any other person not assuming the business of criticism. For instance, he may say that the matter is crude, forced, and unnatural; that it betrays poverty of thought and abounds with commonplaces and platitudes, being altogether flat, stale, and unprofitable; and that its style is affected, obscure, and involved. He may say, as Burke said of the style of Hastings, that it is execrable; but he cannot say that the author himself is execrable, or that he is personally affected or assuming or wayward.

The critic has the same liberty, under the same restrictions, in relation to the people who come before the public for praise or censure. He may say of the orator who uses excessive gesticulation and reiteration, or making extravagant action and verbosity for eloquence, that he has no convictions, without any [illegible] of the sophist. He can say of the player that in the [illegible] his speech, as many players do, that he tears the air to [illegible] but that "tears a passion to tatters, very rage," or that the groundlings, who are capable of [illegible] abuse him as "[illegible] pernicious paternal [illegible] and recommend that he should be whipped for o'erdoing Termagant." The critic can call a painting a daub and an abomination, but he cannot call the painter himself a low sneaker or pretender and an assassin. The most comprehensive freedom in animadverting upon the productions and actions of public men is essential to the very existence of civil and political liberty, and to the progress of civilization and freedom; so with Lord Chesterfield, that "in [illegible] [illegible] Liberty of criticism must be allowed, or we should have neither purity of taste nor manners. Fair discussion is essentially necessary to the truth of history and the advancement of science. That publication, therefore, I shall never consider a libel which has for its object not to injure the reputation of any individual, but to correct misrepresentation of fact, to refute sophistical reasoning, to expose a vicious taste in literature, or to censure what is hostile to morality or [illegible] gentlemen, although a critic may not have directly assailed the character of an author, or ridiculed his personal appearance, his manners, his voice, or exposed any eccentricities or defects of the man, may be not, nevertheless, defame him and wound him in the most vital spot by imputing to him unworthy motives and evil designs against the well being of society, intimating that he there these motives and designs from the sentiments expressed and the characters delineated in the work which he has undertaken to review. My own opinion, gentlemen, is that many of the works which are published in this country are very reprehensible in their effects upon public morality. Not that I think fiction in itself is demoralizing—very far from it. The most instructive lessons in faith and morals have been conveyed through its instrumentality. The Founder of Christianity Himself, did not disdain frequently to employ it. Indeed, it was His favorite method of moral and spiritual instruction. But its very fascination consists its danger, and when we see the press teeming with productions of this kind, describing scenes and portraying characters calculated to corrupt the morals and even weaken the mental stamina of the multitude of novel readers, who seem to be absorbed in this kind of reading, it will be prudent to allow considerable latitude of criticism in relation to these productions.

There is one virtue which women of honor have not always observed, but have tenderly and ardently cherished, and, I may say, adored. They esteem it as a sacred jewel, its price far above rubies, and the woman who is without it is deemed lost to all virtue. The want of it disfigures her whole nature, and any community in which the want of it is prevalent, depend upon it, is on the rapid road to ruin. The tendency of many of the productions to which I have referred is to weaken the foundations upon which this virtue is based. They are almost as mischievous as the plays which abounded in the profligate reign of Charles II., when the foulest and most hideous corruption prevailed in the court and among the higher classes. I have often wondered that society escaped the destruction which that corruption was calculated to produce. I do not say that English novels are as mischievous in this respect, as similar works of fiction published in France. For there, in such works, open adultery seems to be especially admired and honored. Unholy love, like unsanctified human reason at a memorable period of its history, seems to be deified in the land. The writer who has contributed most to the dreadful condition of things is a profligate woman, although she has shown some token of decency by assuming the name of a man.

I make these observations, gentlemen, to show that in dealing with this kind of literature the critic should not be prevented from inferring the motives and designs of the author from the inevitable effect of his writings. Of course, if he imputes motives and designs which he was not warranted in imputing by any opinion or sentiments expressed, or any character delineated in the work or from its general tone, he is liable, and must take the consequence, and the author is entitled to redress. To charge an author with such motives and designs is a most serious imputation, and if it is unwarranted, the critic has committed a grievous wrong, which money is scarcely capable of repairing. Undoubtedly, the critic has complained of make these imputations against the plaintiff. That can scarcely be denied.

I repeat, that it is not necessary for me to read these articles; I have no doubt you understand them. The jury

A Remarkable Exhibition.

IS IT SUPERNATURAL?—IF NOT WHAT IS IT?

A Bangor correspondent of the Boston Advertiser gives the following account of a series of remarkable exhibitions which have recently been given in this city to intensely interested audiences:

Our community have lately been "entertained" by a series of remarkable exhibitions given by Mr. Reed, the famous "physical medium," in what perhaps may be termed spiritual necromancy or sleight of hand. The performance have been the most wonderful character, and though often exhibited in this and other places, an account of them may notwithstanding be of interest to some of your readers as they have been to very crowded and intensely interested audiences here.

Mr. Reed is a young man of no marked peculiarities, unless it be an excess of good nature and an honest appearence. He started in life as a railroad engineer, and was compelled to abandon his position on account of the difficulty which his "mediumship" threw in the way of success as a safe manager of the engine. His story shows him driven to the course he is now pursuing by a constant interruption of every other engagement in which he sought to earn a livelihood, both in civil and military life. He was at the siege of Vicksburg, where he received a wound which disables him from even toeing off his boot.

After giving a history of his introduction to his course of life, he introduced his performance by exhibiting, as tools or implements for the evening's work, several ropes, rings, and musical instruments, which were laid carelessly around on the stand, chairs, and floor of the stage, where he was to take his position. In the beginning a person was nominated from the floor as committee to attend the medium. The person selected was one entirely unacquainted with the medium and not a believer in spiritualism, but who seemed peculiarly acquainted with the science of knots and bands. By him the operator was most completely bound to his chair, his feet and arms being firmly tied together at the wrists and ankles, in the presence of the audience, and in a manner which seemed to preclude the possibility of his unloosing them by any possible effort. His hands thus united were then tied to the front round of the chair, the rope passed to the back round and there tied again, while another equally tight cord bound his body and neck, some 15 feet of cord being thus consecutively used up in knots and bindings. Thus prepared the séance opened, and suddenly a chair by his side was found attached to his person by his left arm being thrust through around the leg between the bars. The stand then underwent a similar change, from which position both were in their turn transferred in a twinkling to the road, where they were found and taken off. With his hands thus tied together his coat was quickly thrown off to a distance without any injury to the garment, and as quickly one of the medium's arms was found to be thrust through the sleeve of the committee man's coat, which had lain on a chair near by. In another second the coat was transferred to the leg, which was thrust through its whole length, and from thence taken and strung upon the rope fastened as before described, to the round of the chair, and thence to the hands. At another moment two iron rings, which a curious blacksmith had manufactured that afternoon, and marked with his name, and produced at the time, were found around each arm, both being identified as those made as above stated. As already remarked, the observers were entirely convinced of the impossibility of the medium's getting his hands loose to do these feats himself; but to test the matter further his hands were clenched and filled with loose rice, not a grain of which was found spilled. This put that question beyond doubt. After a series of such feats as these, the medium desired to be unbound, and the swollen condition of his hands bore most confirmatory proof of his suffering from the tightness of the binding. He was found so completely bound that the effort of untying was abandoned and the cords cut to relieve him.

Being now at liberty and standing upright, volunteers, male and female, from the audience came upon the stage, and, standing before him, held him by the hands and hair so that both hands and body were thus deprived of the power of motion without the knowledge of the attendants. While thus placed they all testified to the impression of a warm hand on the face, arms and other parts of the body; the guitar and tambourine were played, and then placed on their arms; the stand and chair were removed, and at the same time placed on their heads, and other like feats performed. The performer was then held firmly by the committee man, with one hand grasping his coat collar and the other his "overtop," while his two hands were clasped on the committee man's arm. Thus placed the medium's coat without attendant's knowledge was thrown among the audience, and the committee man found himself holding on to the medium's shirt collar instead. Other and numerous equally unaccountable performances took place.

Among the feats performed by Mr. Reed is the placing of an iron ring around the neck only sufficiently large to encircle it. This was not performed here, but an equally difficult act was performed by the use of a hempen chain of three links, each one of which was cut little larger than a man's neck. While his hands were tied at the beginning this was found with the middle link around the neck with his arms thrust through the other two. All these feats are of course performed in the dark, the light being temporarily turned off, as is the case in all such exhibitions.

Such is a brief and hurried description of this most remarkable performance such as is now demanding the attention of the world in the way of explanation. If the phenomena are not what the performers claim them to be, what are they and whence? The answer that they are all deceptions and a cheat is no answer to begiven to those who have witnessed them. This may be said with greatest assurance.

If fickle fashion keeps on its course she is now pursuing, we may prepare for a return to periwigs, skirts as "scrimp" as sacks, high waists and small clothes. We have settled down contentedly to the admiration of hoops, and are preparing to revive the custom of powdering the hair. In Eastern cities all kinds of powder is used grey, diamond and yellow. The hair is done up in immense rolls, thrown over rolls, pulled up high in antique puffs, tortured in fact in every manner until it assumes the proportions of a turret, when the powder is sprinkled over it. We hope we may be spared heels three inches high, and boots with the toes turned up and fastened to the knees.

The Boston Post says "The fitness of women for office will no longer be questioned. A postmistress in Pennsylvania has been caught robbing the mails."

PROSPECTUS

OF THE

Weekly Oregonian.

FOR 1869.

Nineteenth Volume!

Only $3.00 a Year.

By common consent the OREGONIAN ranks first among the papers published in the Northwest. It is the oldest paper in the State, and its circulation and influence are greater than that of any other two papers combined. As a Journal of enterprise in gathering the latest intelligence, and in giving in each issue a larger amount and greater variety of reading matter it has no competitor. It is thoroughly identified with this city and State and neighboring Territories, where the number of its readers and its influence are constantly increasing.

An unflinching advocate of sound Union principles, it at the same time pays special attention not only to MATTERS OF GENERAL INTEREST, but to everything of moment to the great

Agricultural, Manufacturing,

AND MINING INTERESTS,

And to the development of the resources and settlement of the Northwest.

Its columns contain a carefully prepared digest of

NEWS FROM ALL PARTS

OF

Oregon, Washington, Idaho and Montana.

TELEGRAMS FROM

are published as full as in the California Journals, and put before our readers from ONE TO THREE DAYS BEFORE ANY OTHER PAPER IN THE STATE.

Among its corps of writers are regular correspondents at New York and Washington City, men who, having lived in this State, are able to write on Eastern affairs, both politically and commercially from an Oregon standpoint.

Its Literary and General Selections are from the best sources.

EXTENDED AND RELIABLE

are furnished every week, giving the Financial, Dry Goods, Hardware, and General Market Reports of Portland, and the latest reports by Telegraph of the San Francisco and New York markets. These reports are acknowledged to be the most accurate published in the State.

In every department it will be, as it has been, the foremost in the State in the field of journalism. Being firmly established, it will go forward with confidence, making new plans for improvement and usefulness, and hopes to gain increased circulation and support.

WASHINGTON TERRITORY ITEMS.—L. A. Davis, proprietor of the stage line from Montecello to Olympia, having taken a partner, the new company add some twenty horses, new stages, etc., for the better accommodation of the increasing travel.

The Sound has heretofore been frequently mentioned as a favorable place for ship building, having abundance of clear lumber, timber and spars, and three fine bays of large size, two schooners, some sloops and several steamers have been constructed at different points before mentioned, but ship-building proper, and that of large size, double-deck vessels, is quite a new feature—one on a larger, grander scale. Messrs Meigs & Hawley, proprietors of Port Madison Mills, having completed two fine barks, propose to commence at once the construction of a 1,200 ton clipper, at Port Madison. This company have secured an experienced shipbuilder Mr. Westervelt, of the firm of Westervelt & Co., New York an old and well known firm. The first vessel is to be a first-class medium clipper ship, full rigged, of 1,200 tons burthen, 230 feet long, double deck, with all the modern improvements, in finish, style and model. Mr Westervelt is assisted by a large corps of workmen from San Francisco, and no means or skill will be spared to accomplish the most complete success in this first first-class clipper enterprise on Puget Sound.

DRAMATIC.—The very thrilling play of "Under the Gas Light" drew a fair house last night, and the rendition of the piece was fully equal if not superior to former presentations of the same piece. The scenery in this play is really fine, and the stage machinery was well managed and worked quite smoothly. The characters were sustained with all propriety, and whoever has failed to see this great sensational play has missed a rare treat.

This evening, it will be remembered, Mrs Bates has a benefit, and we think her efforts during the past winter to please the citizens of Portland, as well as her genuine ability in her profession, deserve that a full house should greet her to-night. The play is "School for Scandal," which has had great success in the Easternities and Callifornia, and without doubt will highly please all who attend this evening. Owing to the postponement of the sailing of the steamer Mr. Wheatleigh will remain in this city until Thursday, and his name in the bill as appearing in the afterpiece will be a guarantee of its interest. We bespeak for Mrs. Bates a crowded house.

THE BEND.—Fashion rather overdid the thing when she got up the Grecian Bend. She often goes to extremes but in that she got too far ahead of public opinion, and those who attempted to "bend" themselves found that they were vastly more stared and laughed at than admired. A San Francisco paper thus notes the appearance of one in that city: "A well known lady, leader of the ton, — a tremendous furor on Montgomery street yesterday, by appearing with a well developed [illegible] Grecian bend. The hump seemed to rest easy in its place, and to all appearances caused the fair little sweetness no inconvenience. It was the center of attraction, and the denizens of Montgomery street were on a broad grin from the time it came in sight until it disappeared in the distance." Little boys ran after it as they would after a circus or military band, and gray-haired old men raised their eyebrows, wiped their specks, and in the intensity of their gaze, walked over small boys and broke into apple stands."

WATER BY THE LAW.—We have lately heard considerable talk as to whether the bill amending the city charter, which was introduced at the last session of the Legislature, has become a law, and whether we are to be governed by it in the coming city election. Our best information leads us to believe that the bill passed and was approved by Governor [illegible], and if so, it is now a part of the law just as much as if it had been printed. The failure to make the appropriation to print and distribute the acts of the last Legislature is a matter of much perplexity to the people of Oregon, as it is a very difficult matter to learn what acts of that body became the law of the land, and what portions of them are inoperative. We believe the principal feature of the amendment above referred to made the Auditor, Street Commissioner, and City Council as heretofore. Will any one who has access to the documents furnish the information desired by a number in Portland who want to know."

TRADE, ETC.—From the Commercial Herald, San Francisco of the 17th inst., we learn that the receipts of the produce of Oregon produce from January 1st to date have been as follows: Flour, qr sks, 239,167; [illegible] 30,491; Oats, sks 37,050; Barley, sks 240; [illegible], bf bbls 86, cs 53, pkgs 222; Bacon, pkgs [illegible]; Lard, bbls 427; Butter, pkgs 18; Cheese, pkgs 221; Lard, pkgs 1,303; Pork, bbls [illegible], pkgs 1,142.

FROM QUARTZ.—The attention of passers on the corner of [illegible] was attracted by a large block of gray-looking rock in front of a grocery store, at the corner of First and [illegible] streets, labelled "White Pine Mines." Not being able to learn what ledge it was taken, whether or thus upper of the chunk had any feet for sale, etc [illegible] out at length that this supposed quartz was a piece of mill stone burr, brought up by Mr. [illegible] to use in dressing the stones for his new mill.

—A wild ox was being led up Washington [illegible] the other day, and soon as a rope attached to a wagon. [illegible] street the bovine concluded he would go no [illegible] and accordingly came to a dead halt. The driver and his ox-ship took a stand on the sidewalk in front of a Provision store and remained there in spite of the united efforts of several men to remove him. At last he was tied to an awning post and left to stand at his leisure.

—On account of the absence of some of the members of the building committee, the letting of the contract for the construction of the Odd Fellows Hall, which was to have taken place yesterday, is postponed until Monday next. It is intended to advance the work of erecting the edifice as rapidly as practicable, and we hope to see it completed during the present season. [illegible] other undertakings in Portland, will succeed.

—An error occurred in the synopsis of Mr [illegible]'s speech at Vancouver, as published by us yesterday. In the last paragraph but two, for "[illegible] the time should come that the citizens of this coast needed protection for the Chinaman, the Republican party was ready to give it," read, "whenever the time should come that the citizens of this coast needed protection from the Chinaman," etc.

—The Morning Commercial has again entered upon the politics of the day and "comes out" as a political journal. The last number says: The [illegible] forth as an independent journal. It is nothing, nor bound down by any [illegible] as a line of conduct which has for its purpose the success of a political party. We wish it success under the new auspices.

—We learn that the postmaster in this city has received a money-order book and is now prepared to issue orders.

—The system is one of the greatest conveniences and safest way of sending money by mail yet devised, the [illegible] but a trifle and a failure being almost unknown.

COWLITZ.—The steamer Carrie, Capt. J. T. Kerns, on her last trip ascended the Cowlitz river to Upper Cowlitz, without serious difficulty. That is as far as it is often run up that stream. It is intended to run to this point as often as trade and travel will justify and the water permit.

—We acknowledge the receipt of a complimentary ticket to the Ball of the Knimet Guard on next Friday evening. Present indications are favorable to the success of this popular organization in their efforts to make the occasion a brilliant and recherche affair.

[illegible] & Co. have bought out their former partner, Mr. Wasserman, and are now in receipt of a full line in their line of business which they offer at low figures. They have everything in the way of carpeting and upholstery.

CARGO BOAT.—We visited the Hattie C. Besse yesterday and found her crew actively engaged in taking on a large [illegible] of Oswego pig iron. We are glad to chronicle the fact that Oregon is thus sending to other points the inexhaustible mineral which lies in her hills.

—The bark Whistler brought up from [illegible] a large steam boiler for the use of the Portland Water Company. Oregon can make such boilers just as well as California, and we see no use of going so far for what can be had right at home.

—The Continental, Live Yankee, Whistler and Hattie C. Besse, all of which are discharging freight at one wharves, make it a very busy time for trucks and drays. Portland is full of goods, over 500 tons having arrived this week already.

SAW MILL.—Mr. Samuel Douglas is constructing a machine and Portable Saw Mill about one and a half miles from East Portland, which will be in operation shortly. The boiler made at the Willamette Iron Works in this city, was hauled across the river yesterday.

FURNITURE.—The sale of furniture by Mr. Kilbourn to-day, on Main street, opposite the Court House. A good chance will be offered to those who wish to fit themselves out for housekeeping.

THE WHISTLER.—This bark, Capt. Simpson, is now at this port discharging her cargo, and the attention of [illegible] is called to the advertisement of her owner in another column.

TOWELS.—In yesterday's issue we committed to return thanks to the purser of the Orizaba and Wells, Fargo & Co. for late files of California papers. Much obliged.

TO BE RESUMED.—Exercises will be resumed at the Portland Academy and Female Seminary to-morrow morning at the usual hour.

DELAYED.—The sailing of the Continental is postponed until Thursday at 5 o'clock P. M.

BORN.—To the wife of L. P. W. Quimby of the American Exchange Hotel, a daughter.

We have watched the course of so many distressed, disgusted and forlorn dyspeptics, of worn-out and prematurely old sots, who have taken a new lease of life, and gratefully received vigor, strength, health and the power of social pleasures from the effects of PLANTATION BITTERS, that we are not surprised at the testimonials daily published. If it is a pleasure to do good in the world, how full must be the measure of the Proprietors of these celebrated Bitters.

MUSICAL ACADEMY.—Prof Cardinell's classes are held every week-day evening, and on Saturday afternoon for children. Hall in Poppleton's Building, First street.

The printing of the new postage stamps is rapidly progressing at the establishment of the National Bank Note Company in this city. The printing is done under the supervision of several officers of the Post Office Department at Washington specially detailed for that purpose, and no proof sheets are allowed to be taken or carried away by anybody not even by the officers of the Bank Note Company. A large quantity of the new stamps have already been issued to the New York post office. But only those for two cents are as yet sold to the public, the old stock of the other grades not having been exhausted and the new ones can be sold only when none of the old style remain on hand. All the designs have been prepared and the engraving was done by the Bank Note Company, and the specimen copies which have been inspected presented the most exquisite and even a really artistic appearance—at least in every respect vastly superior to the postage stamps of any other country. They are printed in various colors all those of higher grades like the stamps in question, twenty-four, thirty and ninety cents, even in two colors. All the colors, except black are what are called fugitive colors in order to prevent the abrasion or washing off of the cancellation mark and use of the same stamp a second time. Instead of the parallelogram, in which the former stamps were engraved the new ones are all square and twenty-fourths of a inch and size readily distinguishable from those formerly used. The following are the designs and colors for each particular stamp:

One cent—Head of Franklin in circular ornamental scroll. Color, Remarkable.

Two cents—Postboy on horseback within ornamental scroll-work painted in light brown.

Three cents—Locomotive on track, surrounded by ornamental scroll-work, the color is blue, the word "Postage" in white on a panel of darker hue.

Six cents—Head of Washington in square frame; blue.

Ten cent—American shield and eagle, surmounted by stars in the form of a section of circle, in clouds, printed in orange.

Twelve cents—Steamboat in mid-ocean, in circular frame of ornamental scroll-work. Green.

Fifteen cents—The landing of Columbus—a miniature copy of the picture in the rotunda at Washington. This is beautifully executed and printed in blue, while the ornamental scroll or frame around it is of pale reddish brown.

Twenty-four cents—The report of the committee to the Continental Congress in 1776 on the Declaration of Independence. Though of a most diminutive size the figures are all portraits. This design is printed green and the ornamental border purple.

Thirty cents—On this is again represented the American shield and eagle, printed in carmine, resting on battle-flags of blue.

Ninety cents—Medallion head of Lincoln, in black, the scroll-work and lettering being carmine.

For the thirty-cent stamp another design had been submitted, namely, a miniature copy of the picture at the national Capitol, representing the Surrender of Burgoyne, to be printed in black with greyish purple scroll-work, but for some reason this has been rejected and the eagle and shield substituted. N. Y. Herald.

BREACHES OF PROMISE.—If certain thousands of dollars damages are awarded to a few more women bringing suits against men old enough to be their grandfathers, it is possible that the system will operate as a premium, stimulating energetic, enterprising and charming females to work every such lead in the country. White Pine pales before these prospects. Old men of capital may now deem themselves encompassed with dangers. They should make it a rule never to hold a personal interview with an unknown woman. Let it be done by proxy. There are damages in the rustle of every dress, there is financial depletion in

The farmers of Deer Lodge county have large quantities of hay left over this season. There being no snow on the stock range, cattle required no feeding last winter.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 12, 1869.

Messrs Sanders & Co., General Agents Manhattan Life Insurance Co.—

GENTLEMEN: It is with regret that we learn that a report has been circulated in Portland, Oregon, that your Company had refused, or would not recognize the claim of Mrs. Hannah Meier, widow of Julius A. Meier, deceased, on the ground that deceased had been murdered. We are at a loss to understand how such a report originated, as you had assured us from the day of his death, that his claim would be promptly paid as soon as the necessary proofs of his death were furnished.

We now here to thank you, and also Mr. C. F. Ferry, your agent at Portland—not only for your assistance in arranging the requisite proofs—but for the prompt payment of the TEN THOUSAND DOLLARS, the amount of said policy, which affords the most substantial proof of the utter falsity of the report alluded to.

Yours very truly, for Mrs. Hannah Meier and her brother in law. M MORGENTHAN

NEGLECTED COUGHS AND COLDS.—Few are aware of the importance of checking a Cough or "Common Cold" in its first stage, that which in the beginning would yield to a mild remedy, if neglected, soon preys upon the Lungs. Brown's Bronchial Troches or Cough Lozenges, afford instant relief.

NIGHT SCHOOL.—Mr Fitzgerald has opened a Night School in the schoolhouse (up stairs) near the Catholic Church. For Terms—See the Teacher.

Grant and Equal Rights

To secure protection of individual rights and freedom of expression for political opinion within the limits of order and law, are likely to be cardinal aims of General Grant's administration. Wendell Phillips need not be anxious about "Ku-klux cut-throats." The new Administration is more bent on putting down villainous combinations to substitute terrorism for tranquility, than he can ever be, and by means more effective, if less noisy and bloodthirsty. It is not only in the instant promotion of Sheridan and the reinstatement of those army officers who were removed in disgrace by Mr. Johnson that we learn the new President's determination regarding "military reconstruction," and the protection of society at the South from the reckless and lawless—we can prefigure it clearly from his personal character. For, it is a familiar truth in human nature that men of General Grant's slow-stirring and equable temperament are as little liable to swerve and swing away from a deliberate opinion of policy, when once reached, as they are tardy to attain it. Gen. Grant's realization of the importance, as well as the grandeur, of securing individual rights—as, for example, freedom of opinion and an untrameled career—to every human being on whom American citizenship has been lawfully conferred, was, possibly, like his faith in the policy known as "military reconstruction," of somewhat slower growth than that of more restless thinkers, who, in turn, have their roving fancies now fixed on other ideals; but he is probably more determined than any man in America, at this moment, to establish order, provide security for person and property, enforce the laws and punish armed and banded law-breakers by military force where the civil arm is still paralyzed.

If General Grant arrived later, we repeat, at some conclusions, it was because he did not jump at them, and arrived to stay. He abides by the views he put forth in his famous dispute with Mr. Johnson at the time of Sheridan's removal, and has gone forward on the same line. He seems to know little and care little for wrangling parties at the South, one saying to the other, "I am more loyal than thou;" he has little to say of "political disabilities," and that little not in favor of them; his words regarding Lee, and his act regarding Longstreet, show that vindictiveness toward former enemies is as foreign as ever to his nature; but when it comes to any matter of national legislation aiming to give full full rights and privileges of citizenship to every citizen—whether by civil rights bill, fourteenth amendment, fifteenth amendment, or what not—his approbation and indorsement are very prompt and hearty.

In the history of the Republic for nearly eighty years, everything was done, for State rights and national rights, nothing of consequence for domestic rights of citizenship. But the rebellion, which revolutionized American destiny in so many respects, did so in none more notably than this. The rights of American citizenship now take the precedence of all others, as they always should have done in a Republic where the electoral people are sovereign. We have lately undertaken to protect those rights even against States—that is to say, against that odious local legislation which once trampled with the Republic freedom of travel, of opinion, and of speech. How vast a political and national tendency this is, our nearness to it may prevent us from realizing; but the historian of the future, who will view it in its just perspective, will comment upon it as not less momentous than the war itself.

Our generation, also, may not fully appreciate what lustre and historic grandeur will gather about that Administration which shall first establish as one of its main aims the protection of American citizenship, making that citizenship the badge of security for equal rights to all, throwing about the citizen as a citizen—not only in foreign countries, where his rights are now at length acknowledged, but here, especially, in every part of his own country—the segis of his nation's arm, and putting into each citizen's hand, as it were, for his protection against all the world, the gathered thunderbolts of the nation. Under such an Administration, the "Civis Romanus sum" of antiquity will only stand side by side with the safeguard, "I am an American citizen."

Local Notes.

A "Chiv," writing from Arkansas for information, wants to know what a "sough and Piggs is worth" and "whether the African nigger can vote and hold offis" in this country. He does not think them qualified, of course, and does not wish to live in a country which allows them such privileges. The letter is a literary curiosity, the quotations above, being only a fair sample of the entire document, for which we have not room.

Barney Cosgrove was recently convicted in the San Francisco County Court of stabbing a man named Flood, and by his time before election, and Judge McKinstry sentenced him to pay a fine of $500 or 250 days in the county jail. To save her son from the latter alternative, Mrs. Cosgrove mortgaged her homestead to raise the money and pay the fine. For all the above, whisky is said to have been exclusively responsible.

A new journal has been started in Warrensburg, North Carolina, with the name of the Living Present. The design at the head of its columns, is a death's head and cross-bones which gives a critical cotemporary an opportunity to suggest that it ought to be called the Dead Past. It is a rabid anti-Union paper, of the Ku-Klux style, but is fortunately a very sickly thing, and under the new administration of affairs will not likely survive for many months.

It is stated by a Washington correspondent that the Attorney-General of the United States has considered the question of the revocation of pardons signed by Mr Johnson, and that he decides that a pardon takes effect as soon as it is placed in the hands of the United States Marshal. The question is an interesting one in a legal point of view, and there is no doubt that it will be tested by some of those unfortunate enough to be held after a pardon has been issued, unless all further proceedings in their cases are suspended by such a decision as that reported to have been made.

The first number of the Walla Walla Union reached us on last Saturday. The mechanical execution of the paper is good, and the "Salutatory" has the true ring. He says "Ours will be a Republican paper, a Radical Republican paper. We believe, in these days of extremes, in radicalism. If one's political views or sentiments are right, or he honestly believes them so, he cannot too strongly support and defend them." The Union will meet a want long felt by the Union men of Eastern Washington Territory, and it should receive a hearty support. In the coming canvass its influence will be invaluable for the cause of truth.

The Stockton Independent, speaking of the action of the Senate upon the question of the Alabama claims says, we have had too many attempts to conquer our love of right, by the "tiring out policy" on the part of home rebels, to allow foreigners to overcome us by that system or tactics. At no previous session probably, could a vote so unanimous have been obtained in the Senate in favor of demands so imperative. We doubt whether any future session can be brought to agree to claims so moderate. Like the Southern States that have stubbornly resisted the march of events and temporized until more stringent exactions were made, England will find that the sooner she settles the more cheaply she will be able to do so.

Beriah wants to know why a postmaster should be sent to the Penitentiary for a dozen years on suspicion of having taken a small package of gold dust from a letter and the Governor who refuses to call the Rump Legislature of Oregon together in special session, go free? If the first number of Beriah's comparison refers to the case which we suppose it does, it is the first time we ever heard the verdict of a jury called a mere "suspicion," and as for the last, the persistent and successful efforts of the Democratic members in refusing to allow the appropriation bill to be taken up at the last session of the Legislature, is a fact too well known to the people of Oregon to admit of a supposition that public sentiment will throw the blame elsewhere than at the door of that party who by such a course brought about the present financial condition of our State government.

It is reported that Ben Hayden, of Polk, he of the dirty shirt, he who was in favor of incarcerating every one who was opposed to the Republican party, until the feet of rebels should protrude from the windows of every prison in the land, he who sought but failed to obtain a nomination at the hands of the Republican party, and so failing went over "bpdy and breeches" (he has no soul) to the Copperheads, all within the memory of a child not over ten years old, this veritable Ben, a compound of bombast and Oregon mud, mixed with Bascom's best, it is said, is going over to Washington Territory to make the canvass against Mr. Garfielde and in support of Governor Moore. Our trans-Columbia friends have our sincere sympathy in this severe infliction, but Ben's pantankerous speeches will only "work out for them" a far greater victory. He has any amount of "gab," but his sophistry will fade like mist before the solid arguments of the Republican nominee.

The wife of M. H. Abbott, of the Albany Democrat, died last week of consumption. She was universally loved by those who knew her, being possessed of a most amiable character.

The night watchman at Eugene arrested a man on Thursday night, and, not having any other way of confining him, staked him out in the public square (where the grass is tolerably good), and provided him with a blanket, the fellow after sobering off, somewhat broke loose.

The State Journal says the grand jury indicted a certain family in Lancaster, in this county, by the name of Dodson, and having rather an unenviable reputation, on a charge of keeping a house where the innocent and unsuspecting were illaqueated and led from the paths of virtue.

The Echo, on last Monday week, landed at Corvallis from Eugene City, with 112 tons of freight. This the largest freight ever brought by a single boat from Eugene. Almost the entire load consisted of wheat. On Tuesday morning it was transferred to the Reliance and the Echo started back for another haul.

The Commissioners appointed by the last Legislature to select and locate 90,000 acres of land, set apart by Congress for the benefit of a State Agricultural College, will start on their mission about the 20th of next month. They will visit first the Goose Lake country, and then Crooked River and Ochoco Valley.

The transmission of the overland mail is becoming more regular. The principal part of delayed matter, it appears, consists of early dates in March, of which small installments come straggling along every night.

In a jeweler's window at Sacramento are exhibited three silver bricks with the following text attached: "What we got at White Pine—value, $12; cost to get them, $783 59." Encouraging to prospective miners.

We are reliably informed that at the 900 foot level they have a vein of good ore now exposed, nine feet in width, and supposed to be wider, which assays from $50 to $136 per ton. Striking good ore at this depth insures future prospects and many years permanence to our city.

Wells, Fargo & Co.'s pony made the run from Reno, to night, in 59 minutes and 52 seconds.

The Odd Fellows had a most favorable day for their celebration. The turnout was large and imposing, and everything passed off in a satisfactory manner.

The bullion shipment last night by Wells, Fargo & Company was 1,205 pounds, valued at $3,522,845.

A slight thunder shower on Sunday evening laid the dust for the Odd Fellows' procession to day.

Reports from the Gold Hill mines to day are more favorable. The gas and smoke has greatly diminished in volume, and every effort possible is being made to put a final extinguisher on the fire.

Another body was found to day above the 600 foot level, but the gas drove the workmen out before they could remove it.

The U. S. surveying brig Fauntleroy has arrived here for the purpose of going on the ways to receive necessary repairs. Her officers and men are now surveying Port Discovery Bay.

BY STATE TELEGRAPH

SALEM, April 26.—The Odd Fellows celebrated their fiftieth anniversary here to day. The attendance was large, nearly every lodge in the State was represented. The procession was long and presented a beautiful appearance. Prominent in the procession was a fine, [illegible] covered car, conveying the oldest Odd Fellow in the State, Ezra Sphratka. The oration was delivered by Hon. N. Porter, of San Francisco.

BY ATLANTIC CABLE

BERLIN, April 23.—In the Prussia Diet, yesterday, Bismarck opposed an appropriation for the publication of the official Blue Book, but consented to lay the public documents before the diet.

ST. PETERSBURG, April 23.—The ice in the Neva is breaking up and navigation will soon open.

Fifty persons were before the Police Court in San Francisco, during one day last week for drunkenness.

A SENSIBLE MAN.—Occasionally a man is found at the South who comprehends the age in which we live, and the new ideas and institutions to which it has given birth, and who is disposed to join in the march of progress. Hon. R. H. Glass, of Virginia, belongs to that class. Speaking of the programme marked out by the Conservative or rebel party of that State, he says:

"I have changed because events have changed and our government has changed. A mighty revolution has swept over our political and social systems and are the people of Virginia to remain stupidly blind to the new line of departure? Have they to follow longer the lead and cling longer to the fallen fortunes of the Northern Democracy, who have failed to afford them any relief, and who are powerless to extend relief to themselves?

I shall do no such thing, and they who are seduced longer by the Jack-o-lantern lights of treason shipwrecked mariners who are still dreaming and speculating about defunct constitutions and platforms of the past, are simply gambling away what still remains from the debris of war, of the homestead of their good old Commonwealth, and dancing at her funeral. They shall dance by none of my music, nor will I dance by theirs."

FROM LORANE.—The grand jury of Lane county have returned ten indictments. The defendants have been arrested or are under bonds to appearance. Zach Moore was indicted for an assault with intent to kill; verdict of jury, assault and battery, penalty a fine. Judgment will not be given until Monday. Solomon Landers has been arrested for an indictment for arson, for burning Joseph Stevenson's house. We simply mention the fact, as it is our practice not to say anything as to the guilt or innocence of parties arrested on criminal charges until they are tried upon the facts of the case. Our grand jury go on the principle that crime shall not go unpunished. It is uncertain when court will get through. The indications are that it will run until towards the last of next week.—Guard.

According to the returns of Deputy Sheriff Hallock the sum received at White Pine for quarterly licenses under the gambling Act, is $10,079.

MR. M. REESE, the millionaire of San Francisco, visited and patronized THE OREGON DISPENSARY on his first arrival in this city, because he heard that it was the cheapest and most elegant Drug Store on the coast. We also are furnishing the toilet articles and medicines to the guests of Mr. Holladay for the excursion trip to Victoria and Puget Sound, which is a further evidence of our increased popularity. Everybody now procures all articles in our line at THE DISPENSARY because our medicines and goods are fresh, pure and cheap.

LORYEA & KALLENBURG,
Oregon Dispensary, 73 First street.

It is nothing more than the truth, if people tell you that though KOHN & FISHEL are not selling off at cost, they nevertheless do sell at lower rates than any other house in Oregon. Their stock of Clothing cannot be surpassed. It is undoubtedly the finest, neatest and most fashionable in the State. Every person would do well to call on Kohn & Fishel, No. 91 Front street, before purchasing elsewhere.

DIED.

In this city, April 26, 1869, Herman Hartlieb, aged 32 years, 1 month and 16 days.

Friends of the family are invited to attend the funeral at 2 o'clock to-day from the residence, No. 25 North First street. San Francisco papers please copy.
